WARREN W. JONES

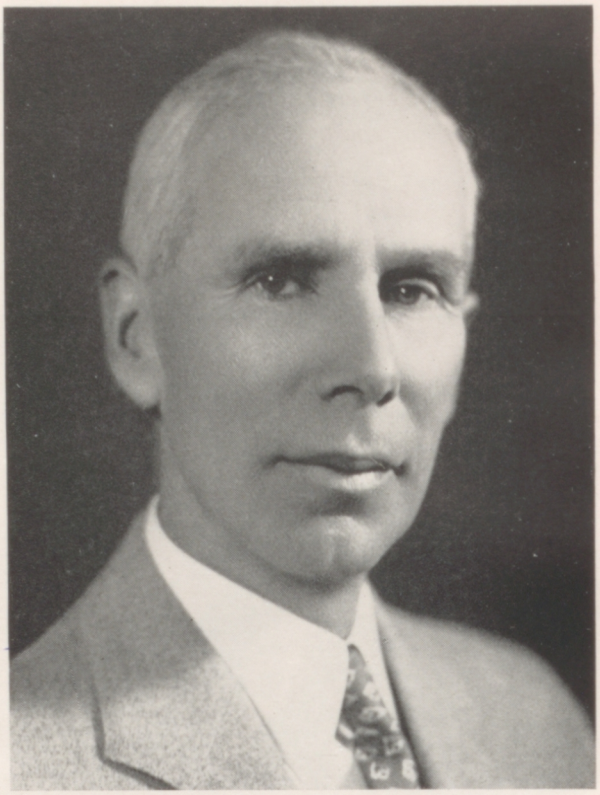

WARREN W. JONES

To enjoy the love and respect of the people among whom you live and work is a high privilege; to know that years of service but multiply your friends must be a great inner satisfaction.

Students love him for his fine, sympathetic personality and all respect him for the soundness of his work.

The Tamarack salutes Mr. Jones —friend, scholar, teacher.

FREDERIC G. KENNEDY

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

To the Seniors:

As you go away from this school with your diplomas, it is not so much what you know that we are concerned about as what you are.

Much you studied here you will soon forget; what you became here will be a part of you always.

We trust you may credit North Central with having influenced you to want to keep on learning; with having encouraged you to take part in community affairs; with having increased your love of your country and your desire to serve it.

And we hope you will come back here often, in spirit and in person, to share with us your adventures in living.

Sincerely yours,
F. G. KENNEDY.

CLASS OF JANUARY 1942

GOOD AFTERNOON, ladies and gentlemen. This is your Old Timer of the Smithsonsian Institute. This afternoon, because of popular demand, we are going to "tell all" about the ancient tribe of Indians known to all as the "North Centralites." This tribe was a famous tribe known abroad for its spirit and enthusiasm. Of this tribe a certain group is called to our attention. They were known as the "Senior A Class."

Their head man was Chief "Fullum Hot Air," Johnny Neff; Vice head man, "Second Baggum of Hot Air," Helen Pandelis; Secretary, "Scribblum Down Fast," Claire Becker; and "Wampum Keeper," Dan Doelman.

A big event every year, which all the tribe attended, was the annual war dance. Squaw Irene Olsen was in charge and Braves, Johnny Neff, Norm Cross and Squaw Betty Johnson helped her.

"Headed for Eden" a white man's play was given and all the tribe enjoyed it very much. You see, this was an annual occurrence before they started buffalo hunting.

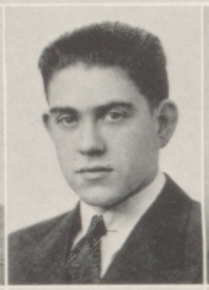

High in the respect of all were those lucky tribesmen who had the privilege to have their names inscribed on the chief's wigwam as being the best in the tribe. The lucky squaws and braves were: Helen Marie Pandelis, Robert Soth, Lillian Stokes, Alice Cooke, Robert Gold, Pauline Staeheli, Claire Becker, Paul Vinther, Dorothy Rosenau, Glenn Hagle, Charles Smith, Ruth Boesche and Peg Gazette.

Thus our little history of this illustrious "Senior A Class" is concluded. More power to you. Good afternoon.

CLASS OF JUNE 1942

LINED up at the starting line are several hundred horses—horses ranging from sleek two-year-old thorough-breds to moth-eaten nags. It is the day for the famed High School Intelligence Race.

The city of Spokane has turned out en masse to see it. Heavy bets are placed on the most likely horses and jockeys. Looking over the distinguished group of judges, one can see such personages as Frederic Kennedy, T. O. Ramsey and Miss Ruth Winkley.

During the first three laps of the race, the interested spectators see no extremely outstanding racers. Some of the sorrier horses drop out of the race as the course gets more strenuous. (The nags who dropped out at the end of the first lap were seriously advised to spend a season at the beginners' training camp, Lewis and Clark, across the river.)

As the horses come steaming down the fourth lap, one racer breaks away from the group. It is "Senior B Prexy" with Biallas at the reins. "Vice Prexy," "Treasurer" and "Secretary" piloted by Grivas, Muriel Munroe and Jones are not far behind.

At the last stretch "Senior A Prexy," jockeyed by Brasch, emerges from the dust as the leader. Running but a nose behind him is "Vice Prexy" with light-weight Marian Munroe in the saddle. The steeds "Secretary" and "Treasurer," ridden by Jones and Doll, come roaring about a length behind the leaders. With but a few feet to go "Class Orator" with MacIntosh in the saddle comes abreast the four leaders.

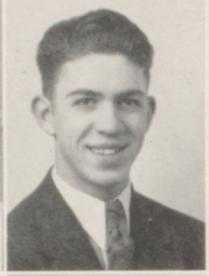

Chief Judge Kennedy is at the finish line to present the grand prizes in forms of diplomas and to wish the jockeys and their horses success in their future goals.

SENIOR B CLASS

THE orchestra strikes up the processional and the audience becomes quiet. Fond parents, proud grandfathers and grandmothers, excited brothers and sisters all sit tense, awaiting the long expected moment.

For twelve years, these graduates have waited and tonight is the night. The magic of school is gone now. Only memories remain where once realities existed—the first happy, days of school when every little thing semed huge and unreal; the first football game they attended as loyal Indian rooters; the roars, as the winning ball was tossed into the basket; the warm glow that came when at last they were seniors; and last but not least the glorious year of graduation.

Yes, this will be the scene and the thoughts—perhaps not expressed—when next January, 128 present senior B's leave North Central forever. They will become the class of January '43, and just like their older brothers they will make their way up the ladder of success. They may be small; but "Good things come in small packages."

Years from now when some are millionaires, some are doctors, some are movie actors or something, they will think back and say; "Why I was a senior B then! Well, do I remember that year. I thought I was sitting on top of the world. Kind of wish I were back there. Then, for a few short moments they may in fancy return to those days of '42."

LITERARY

First Prize Story

By JACK SEGESMAN

I REMEMBER when Joe Solowsky came into the McCallen Iron Works, as if it were yesterday. It was one of those hot, sultry days when the big guy came drifting into the office. I'm not exaggerating when I say big. He stood a good six feet, four inches, and weighed close to two hundred and seventy-five pounds; he wasn't fat but he had hard, solid muscles.

He was dressed in a cheap, ill-fitting brown suit, and he fumbled nervously with his hat when he came in. His big body filled the office as he came towards Carl and me sitting at the pay desk. Carl saw him first and jammed an elbow into my side, at the same time speaking harshly.

"Well, big boy, what do you want?"

Joe stood there uncertainly; then mustering his courage, he spoke, "If you please, sir; I'm looking for a job."

"Are you, now?" Carl snapped; "and I suppose we ought to bend down on our knees to give one to you," he continued. "You are not wanted, big boy. Scram!"

Carl Neff was really a good guy but he had a hot temper. He prided himself on being tougher than the rest of the men. Instinctively he resented the big man's size. It was lucky that at that moment the boss came in and noticed Joe instantly.

"Well, fellow, looking for a job? We can use a man like you. Can you work hard?"

"I can work very hard." Joe said, nodding his great head slowly.

The boss spun around towards me. "Sign him up, Carpenter."

"Yes, sir," I replied meekly, while Carl Neff stamped out of the office with a curse.

That was three years ago, before the war. When the war came, the big McCallen plant was flung into high gear action. Several new wings were added and new men poured into it by the hundreds.

Joe Solowsky and I had become great friends by this time. Joe's heart was as big as he was, and all the gang loved the big, honest man for his kindness and respected his great strength; that is, all axcept Carl Neff. Unreasonably, he still felt antagonism toward Joe and resented his popularity.

Neff had been made foreman, and he drove Joe to work with brutal, harsh words, which cut deeply into Joe's heart, I know.

The clash between the two was bound to come some day and it did, in my office. It was after lunch and Neff was checking over the men's records when he looked up suddenly and cursed.

"Well I'll be hanged. Our great little Solowsky was in World War I. Why isn't he defending Poland now?"

My door opened; Joe came in, and, seeing Carl, hesitated.

"Come in, little Pole, and warm yourself while your dear little country is being betrayed by mugs like you, men with no guts!"

Joe took two steps toward Carl and grabbing hold of him, flung him across the room. Neff crashed through my door and landed in a twisted position on the floor of the hall. While I stood stunned, Joe jammed on his hat and plunged blindly out of the room.

We lost track of Joe after that until one day we learned that he had been sending his pay to Polish relief organizations. Carl felt pretty mad at himself then and taking me in tow, started searching for him. It was I, not Carl, who found him, as big and healthy as ever, working down on the docks storing cargoes aboard battered, tramp steamers. I told Joe how Carl felt and tried to give him some money, but he only smiled and shook his head, promising me, however, that he would come out to the iron works the next day.

Joe was true to his promise. I don't like to remember that day, but this was the way it happened. The boys at the works were putting in some double time to catch up on defense orders. At the time, they were lifting some heavy scrap iron by means of quickly erected cables when it happened.

Carl was standing beneath a great slab of iron, being lowered by a crane from above, when there came a cracking of breaking cables. The big iron beam hung for a second and then shot down towards the unsuspecting Carl. I tried to shout a warning, but my throat seemed dry and the words refused to come.

Then I saw Joe. God knows where he came from, but he came like a ball shot from the mouth of a cannon, and hit Carl with his shoulder, sending him sprawling. To me it looked as if he were catching a football. He reached up and caught the slab in his hands and fell with it. It crushed his life from him.

I like to think that he didn't know any pain, but died instantly. Work was closed for the rest of the day; and when I saw Carl, his face was pale and his clothes dirty and torn.

"George," he said to me, "George, he saved my life. By heavens, George, I'll swear he smiled before it hit him. He had guts, George, more guts than you and I put together."

That's the reason why you'll find a little way from the McCallen Iron Works, a little graveyard, and right in the center of the graveyard, you'll find a small headstone with an American flag planted at the foot of a mound of earth. Carl Neff put it there.

I'm not much of a hand at foretelling the future, but I am certain of this: As long as there are men like Joe Solowsky, breathing, there will always be a Europe and an America.

WAR

First Prize Essay

By ROGER McKIBBIN

THIS is a written version of the thoughts that must enter the mind of every thoughtful youth when the word war is mentioned. It is not an article filled with scientific facts and statistics. It is merely an impression, an impression that has been burned into my mind by the greatest "disease" that has ever ravaged our civilization. War!

Have I ever been to war? No, in fact I have never seen a dead man. Then, you ask, how can I, I who have never seen a battlefield, hope to express an acceptable version of this vital question? My answer is this.

In my mind, I see war as a gruesome, mechanical monster, rolling roughshod over great cities, and all their helpless inhabitants, sparing none from its deadly touch. In the great "game" of war, human beings, people like you, and me, your mother, your sister, your little brother, are murdered by this foul, ruthless monster. Yes, I say murdered; for what chance have they to defend themselves?

Now, picture in your mind a battlefield. Do you see all those gaunt, tired men in uniform? Single out one man, any one, and watch him. Hear that shrill screaming sound? That's a big shell coming over. The smoke is clearing away now. Can you see the man you were watching? There he is, over there lying by that stagnant pool of water. See how he clutches his stomach as he writhes on the muddy, blood-stained earth? Can you imagine the horrible agony of having jagged splinters of steel tear into your flesh? Shrapnel they call it, but to me it seems to be the clutching fingers of a greedy monster crushing out another human life. It is not a pleasant thought, is it? Now I will ask you to form another mental picture.

Our scene this time is a beautiful city. Tall buildings tower over wide, sunny streets along which traffic crawls in a never-ending stream. Look into that shiny blue sedan that is just pulling away from the curb. See that woman with her two children sitting beside her? She could easily be your mother. Such a happy scene, isn't it? But wait! The air raid alarm! Look, off there in the west; see those tiny dots that grow larger with each fleeting moment? Bombers! The roar of their motors reaches a deafening peak as they come nearer, nearer. Black missles hurtle from them and come screaming down to turn into shambles our beautiful city. Look at that shiny blue sedan now. It isn't blue and shiny any more, is it? Yes, it is a horrible sight. Smashed, twisted steel; and look there, a tiny, blood-stained arm hanging limply from the shattered window. Have you a baby brother? To think that it might be he. It isn't a pleasant thought, is it?

General Sherman once said, "War Is Hell," and he was right. Can you bear to live with the thought in mind that you will be rearing your sons to be slaughtered on a battlefield and your daughters to be murdered by falling bombs? No, of course you can't. Yet this is war, the glorious adventure! Let us awake now and realize what we are facing before it is too late.

Is it more important that you have your luxuries? Are they worth the price that you will pay if our nation falls? We, as a free people, would rather die than serve as slaves to an inhuman madman. Learn to do without and remember that the day will come when we will triumph. Let us now prepare for the coming of that day.

Can you not hear the pleading voices of the tortured souls who have long suffered under the brutal heel of oppression? Can you not see the gaunt, starving bodies, every nerve and fiber crying out for food? Oh people, hear my voice! Awake! If then we must make killers of our youth let us make them the most efficient killers this world has ever known. Let us, through our efficiency and united strength, stamp from the earth this monster that men call war.

If we must die, let us die not with the selfish thought of personal glory, but with the realization that we are sacrificing ourselves for the freedom of our children, our children's children and all mankind. And let us, undaunted in our purpose and faith, pray to God in Heaven that this great struggle will be the last that our earth will ever know. Then will our dead not have died in vain.

THE UNEXPECTED CAME

By BARBARA KILGORE

SHE had been out rather late that Saturday night. Everyone had been in bed when she came home, and because of the quiet, she had sat at her dressing table thinking over the night and all that had happened. The events had occurred just as she had hoped and planned they would. There had been but one sour note in the whole evening, and that was a flash over the radio of the "impending danger." Someone had started to say, "The struggle in Europe will soon reach to——," but another had covered his mouth and declared that such talk was to be eliminated.

After a survey of all that had passed, she had reluctantly switched off her light, got into bed, and was fast asleep in five minutes.

Slowly she woke to a new day, and it was Sunday. Queer to think it had been Sunday when she had gone to bed, but then it seemed different. Now there was a new note in the air. She had a feeling that something had happened or—how foolish! It was just her imagination playing tricks. Just the same—mother hadn't come in to wake her up. Heavens! Maybe mom was sick. At this thought she was wide awake instantly. Wait a minute, wasn't that mom and dad talking in the kitchen? Of course it was. Apparently she had been having bad dreams.

She was wide awake now and couldn't get back to sleep. The thought of her brother came to her, and she remembered both of them reading the funny papers in bed on Sunday morning. That was when they were very much younger. Now what was he doing out there in "nowhere"? At least the faraway Philippine Islands were almost "nowhere" to her. She thought he was probably going to bed, because where he was it was nearly night.

That "funny" feeling flooded over her. Something was being planned or had been done. There was just something—Goodness! A good cold shower would bring her back to reality.

The cheery "good morning" brought little response from either of her doting parents. They looked older this morning and changed. The radio was on bringing some rather sad music to its listeners. That didn't matter too much, although it was strange, for neither mom nor dad liked that type of music.

The sudden urge for food overcame her, and the grapefruit was soon consumed. The good American "hot cakes" were next on the bill-of-fare. With a large bite of waffle and syrup half raised to her mouth, the news came.

"We interrupt the symphony concert to bring you more detailed news of the Pearl Harbor bombing."

What? Pearl Harbor is in Hawaii. Bombed? There was some mistake—No! That was the "something" she had been feeling. Mom's expression and the way she groped for her handkerchief; dad's downcast look; his nervous fingers—confirmed all that had been said.

Who had done such a thing? Surely there was some explanation for this. It couldn't have happened; because this was America, and America is always prepared. War! It still didn't seem possible. It's so unexpected. Why just last night someone had said that war wouldn't reach us in America. No, that someone had meant to say that the war could and would touch us, but we wouldn't listen. Had that been the trouble all over the country? We wouldn't listen to people who knew what was coming?

More news. "The Philippine Islands are preparing for an attack that undoubtedly will come." That was where Bill was. The "nowhere." Her brother in danger. That came straight home. She wondered if she would ever see him again. Then immediately came the thought, "God is near and always watching. Pray to Him and believe."

That is what we Americans must do. It takes a long time for the Americans to wake up to the doings of the rest of the world. But when dawn comes for America, nightfall is not far behind for all countries against God and against His plans for us. For all Americans, or nearly all, the bombing was unexpected. The one thought for all of us now is to trust in God and our countrymen. Only that can help us to win this battle for freedom.

WINTER'S MAGIC

First Prize Poem

By WARREN CARR

Once there were sunny, bonny days,
When God's earth seemed to blaze.
Now midst faint fogs of frosty dew,
Soft melody sifts swiftly through.
Winter's reign has come!

Winter's wand has scattered leaves, clothed lake,
Reddened cheeks, sent birds before his wake;
Sent children rushing for neglected sleds,
Or snuggling into quilt-covered beds,
Tucked covers round a sleepy child's head—
Winter's reign.

The dazzle of sun on crystal snow,
The nipping bite as crisp winds blow,
Clearly crooning, now high, now low,
Winter!

BOYS' FEDERATION

L. C. BRADFORD, present adviser, organized the Boys' Federation twenty-four years ago to promote activities among the boys at North Central.

Officers for the fall term were: Jerry Williams, president; John Webster, vice president; Kenneth "Butch" Jones, clerk; Ben McInturff, financial secretary; Jack Brasch, treasurer. Spring semester officers were: Jack Brasch, president; Pat Hanes, vice president; Bob Weeks, clerk; Jerry Williams, financial secretary; Jack Ross, treasurer.

There are four departments in the Boys' Federation: School service, which handles the fire squad; Comanche Guard, the ushering; personnel service, which arranges the new boys' stag, dances, scholarships; community service, soldiers' entertainment, civic affairs, grade school philanthropy; and vocational, which arranges cons, discussions and appoints counselors.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

MISS JESSIE GIBSON, now Dean of Women at Pomona college, founded the Girls' League in 1918. Its purpose is expressed in this emblem: Honor, represented by the American flag; service, by the head of a young girl; and loyalty by the Red Cross flag.

The Central council, composed of the advisers, officers, department heads, committee chairman and floor chairman supervise the work of the League. Advisers this year were Miss Conah Mae Ellis and Miss Helen Cleveland. Officers for the fall semester were. Peggy Gazette, president; Norma Kucera, vice president; Leona Benedict, secretary; Alice Cooke, treasurer. Officers for the spring semester were: Charlene Huffman, president; Joan Heiber, vice president; Mary Panagos, secretary; and Genevieve Trapschuh, treasurer.

The departments, each having a faculty adviser and student chairman are: Senior counselors: Pauline Staeheli, fall; Jean Starlin, spring. Home economics: June Beckman, fall; June Beckman and Ruth Keeling, spring. Physical education: Marian and Muriel Munroe, fall; Helen Nygaard and Marilyn Taber, spring. Library, Betty Stewart. School service: Marjorie Cozetto. Social service: Betty Appel and Bernice Johnson, spring. Red and Black: Juanita Bryan, fall; Virginia Greenough, spring. Campfire Girls and Girls Reserves are also active groups.

Pins of bronze, silver, gold and gold with a ruby are awarded to girls winning places on the honor roll for the second, fourth, sixth and eighth times, respectively.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

FOR the first time in several semesters, the spring senior counselor groups sponsored a tea, to which they invited the mothers of the girls in the individual groups. The groups each gave some kind of entertainment such as: Piano and vocal solos, radio skits, plays and readings.

Teas are given each month for the faculty by the home economics department. The girls on this committee plan, prepare and serve, receiving League points for their part.

A. S. C.

THE Associated Student councils are composed of the executive councils of the Boys' Federation and the Central council of the Girls' League.

The organization, under the faculty direction of Miss Helen Cleveland and L. C. Bradford, has three objectives: To operate joint committees of the League and Federation, to supervise and approve work of the Conduct board, and to initiate and carry out projects of interest to both boys and girls.

Meetings are held twice each month and the various problems are frequently presented through a panel discussion. The fall semester used the "A. S. C. Cryer" as the motif for the dessert dinner, while the spring semester featured a successful drive for the Victory shop.

TRAFFIC AND GROUNDS SQUADS

THE traffic squad was organized in 1920 by Lowell C. Bradford, its purpose being to prevent loafing, running and disorderly conduct in the halls and stairways throughout the school.

Eleven years later, in 1931, the grounds squad was organized. In general, these officers endeavor to maintain the same order on the grounds that the traffic squad maintains in the school building.

Both groups are now under the faculty direction of C. A. Chandler and have the right to issue tickets for the violation of any rules. The issuing of a ticket does not necessarily mean that the accused person is guilty, as the case may be appealed.

Officers during the past semester were: Traffic commissioner, Don Thomason; captain, Deral Kurz; lieutenants, Wayne Conner and Rod Lindquist. Grounds commissioner, Bob Mohr; captain, John Mele; lieutenants, Fred Hoenes and Ladd Kafflen.

THE NEWS STAFF

UNDER the supervision of Ernest E. Green, The North Central News was first published in September 1917. The first issue was a five-column monthly. Later it was changed to its present form, a seven-column weekly.

Rating as National Scholastic Press Association Pacemaker (one of the 12 outstanding high school papers in the country) in '39, '40, '41, and All-American, or highest rating, in '36, '37, '38, best high school paper in the Northwest as judged by the Whitman Press club, spring '40, and a member of Quill and Scroll are the distinctions of The North Central News.

Miss Mary McKenna is faculty adviser of the editorial and business staffs.

THE TAMARACK STAFF

THE first Tamarack was a small magazine about the size of an ordinary school book, only thinner, published for the first time in 1909 when North Central was founded.

When South Central high school burned, students who had attended there came to North Central. The Spokane high school, which was composed of the two student bodies, published quarterly a book known as The Blue and White.

In 1912 the name Tamarack was used again. The publication was edited quarterly for four years, and then as a monthly article until 1918.

Beginning in 1918, North Central published six editions of the book, each edition having different titles.

Again in 1924 the senior class adopted the name Tamarack for their yearbook and so it has remained.

MONITORS

"HAVE you a slip?" and "If you don't be quiet, I'll give you a ticket" are familiar words around North Central.

The locker monitors are on duty during each period of the day and require a permit from anyone entering the lockers.

It is the duty of the library monitors to see that persistent talkers are put out of the library and to aid librarians in keeping order in the library.

Nurse messengers, office messengers and study hall checkers also render a great deal of service throughout the school year. Each monitor relinquishes at least one period a day to her particular task, and for her work receives Girls' League points.

The bookroom workers help in the bookroom, checking text books and selling supplies.

Art library monitors require a slip from anyone entering the art library, whether to study together or to look at the books in this special library.

"HEADED FOR EDEN"

IN an exciting three-act comedy, the January senior dramatics class, under the able direction of Grace Douglas Leonard, presented "Headed for Eden" to a matinee and evening audience, Thursday and Friday, January 15 and 16.

With much the same setting as "Stage Door," this play showed new characterization and plot.

Cast of characters:

"PRIDE AND PREJUDICE"

COSTUMES and characterization worked hand in hand in the class play "Pride and Prejudice," which is a sentimental comedy in three acts, presented by the June senior dramatics class on May 21 and 22.

The play concentrated on Mrs. Bennett's determination to get her daughters married. Jane, Lydia and Elizabeth are likely-looking girls in an unlikely-looking period when a woman's one possible career was matrimony. To be a wife was a success. Anything else was failure.

Jane and her Mr. Bingley and Lydia and her Mr. Wickham are quite contented with things as they are; not Elizabeth! She actually refuses to marry Mr. Collins whom she openly deplored or Mr. Darcy whom she secretly adores.

The play is the story of the duel between Elizabeth and her pride and Darcy and his prejudice. Each gives in before the evening is over and pride and prejudice meet halfway.

BAND

CHALKING up another outstanding year, the 105 members of the North Central high school band made over 80 appearances, including those made by the full band, concert band, radio band, pep band, brass quartet and soloists.

Principal appearances for the whole year included: Merry-go-round game with Red Feathers, football games, including stunts at three games, convocations, basketball games, community chest, Halloween, Armistice day, Lilac and Music festivals, and Decoration day parades, Armistice day broadcast, Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas program, KFPY national recording contest, 36th formal concert, Inland Empire music festival, Junior Olympics, baseball games, and the ninth annual music festival.

For the presentation of a living American flag, 250 bandmen, Red Feathers, and Color girls were awarded the Merry-go-round trophy. A notable feature in the 36th an-

ATHLETIC BOARD

ONE of the oldest student organizations in the school, the Athletic Board, was organized in 1917. The board is composed of the principal, the vice principal, the various coaches, and the captains and the managers of all the various interscholastic sports participated in at North Central.

There are two officers: The chairman, who presides over the meetings, and the secretary. These officers are selected by the board at the first meeting in the semester. The board does not meet regularly, but only when such business as the awarding of letters or the changing of emblems is to be taken care of.

Jerry Williams, who is secretary of the Boys' Federation and a letterman on the teams, is the present chairman of the Athletic board. Marian Munroe who is president of the A. S. C., is secretary of the board.

FOOTBALL

GRID COACH ARCHIE BUCKLEY, assisted by Bob Barnard, developed a powerful fighting team which completed a successful season. The final difference between a championship and last place team was determined by the outcome of two games which were unfortunately lost because of final-second passes which fulfilled the unexpected by connecting for winning touchdowns.

The seasons final standings are:

NO account of the 1941 grid season could be complete without mention of Jerry Williams, hard-driving halfback, who consistently plunged through all types of defenses to become the city's deadliest scoring threat and the leading "ground gainer" and scorer of the season.

Coach Buckley paid tribute to his outstanding grid star by pronouncing him to be "the finest football player I have ever coached." Jerry was additionally honored by being unanimously chosen captain of the all-city eleven.

Norman Cross, end, was the only other North Central player to be selected for the honorary team. Cross, because of his all-around ability, pass receiving and defensive play, gained his all-city berth with a nearly unanimous vote.

Pat Hanes, tackle, and Wayne Hill, fullback, because of their outstanding season performance, received positions on the second all-city team.

BASKETBALL

FINISHING second in the city-prep race and fifth in the state tournament, the hoop squad poured in a combined total of 847 points as against 801 scored by their opponents.

Opening city league play, the Indians slipped by West Valley, 26-22; lost to Rogers, 35-22; toppled Central Valley, 38-34; lost to Gonzaga, 31-19; and lost to Lewis and Clark, 33-20. Thus at the half-way mark the squad had won 2 and lost 3. Hitting its stride, the team opened the second half against West Valley and trounced the Valley quintet, 34-17; squeezed by Rogers, 24-23; defeated Central Valley, 33-31; rolled over Gonzaga, 39-28; and lost to Lewis and Clark, 27-26, to finish league play.

In the state tournament at Seattle, the team lost to Everett, 43-13; then won from Marysville, 27-24; Clarkston, 24-21; and finally ended a torrid season by handing Toppenish a 32-18 shellacking.

BASKETBALL

PACED by Jack "Scotty" Ross, the basketballers played some high caliber ball throughout the season.

Whirlwind windups, last second scoring sprees, and scrappy playing were the outstanding features of this year's team. At no time, when they were trailing an opponent, did the Indians give up, but scrapped it out for a win in the majority of games.

"Scotty" Ross, diminutive deadeye of the squad, was chosen for the All-City team. Jack was outstanding throughout the season. Displaying a deadly accurate one-hand shot, he showered in more baskets per game than any other player in the prep league.

Jack Bech, Jack Brasch, Jerry Williams, Ray Bloom and Dan Crandell all played together, and, by mid-season, the squad was a smooth functioning crew.

With many experienced sophomores-lettermen returning next season, Guy O. Barnes, basketball coach, is confident that the '42-'43 basketball squad will rate plenty high in the standings of the prep league.

BASEBALL

THE 1942 edition of the Indian squad made a good showing in all its games. Opening the season with only five returning lettermen and no veteran pitchers, the Indians were seriously handicapped at the start.

The hurling staff, consisting largely of sophomores, wasn't strong enough to withstand the heavy batters of the city prep league.

With only a few exceptions, the Indian hitting was weak. Batters failed to punch out hits with runners on bases. The hits just weren't coming up at the right time.

Next season, Archie Buckley, baseball coach, should have a strong squad, well posted with pitchers and stocked up with some heavy stick swingers. With the batter nudging the pellet for the communal good, the pitchers should be able to turn back many would be "sluggers" and "bring home the bacon."

TRACK

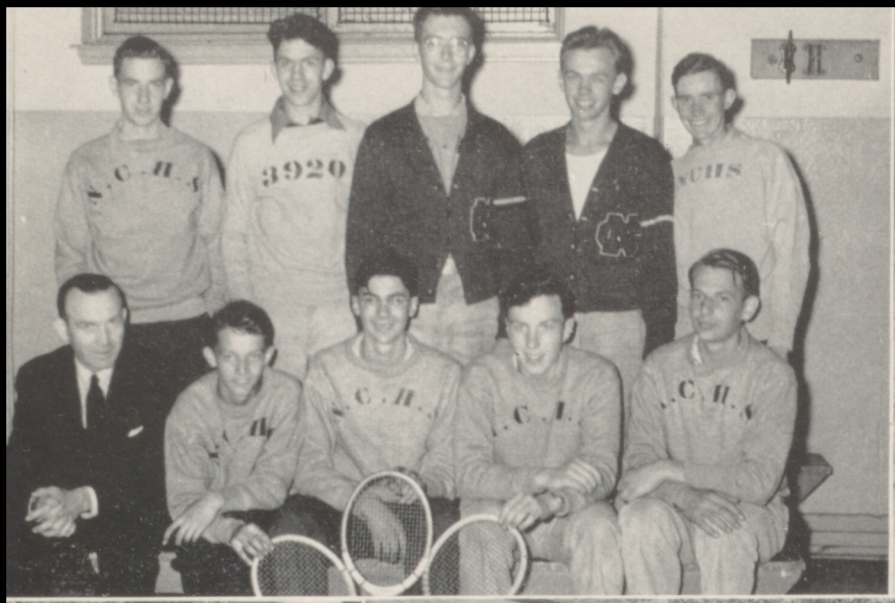

FOR the first time in seven years, Coach Guy O. Barnes failed to start the season without a top-flight cinder team all set to capture the city title.

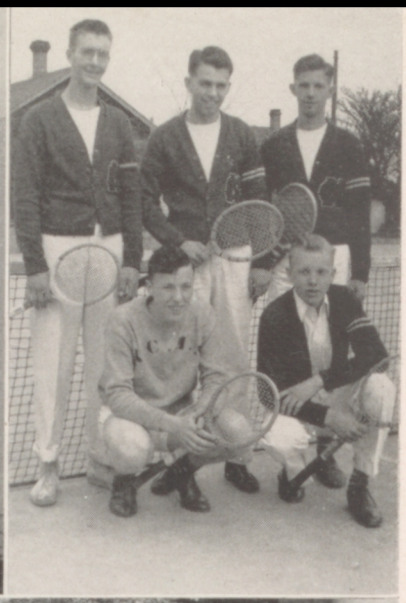

Only three lettermen, Tom Herman, sprinter; Cyril Bare, 880 runner and pole-vaulter; and Jim LaRue, shotputter, returned from the 1941 championship squad. Consequently, the team was forced to rely on the ability of many promising sophomore performers who considerably boosted North Central's possibilities for next year.

Gonzaga and Rogers, each having one of the strongest and well-balanced aggregations in years, proceeded to swamp the defending champions to the tune of 64½ to 39½ and 76 to 28 respectively.

In both meets the losers managed to sweep the shotput with Jim LaRue, Pat Hanes and Jack LaRue taking all 9 points.

For the final dual meet, the two-time losers, Lewis and Clark and North Central, met to decide which team would climb out of the cellar. The Indians won, 53-51.

TENNIS AND GOLF

A PRE-SEASON view of the 1942 net squad showed four of the eight members to be returning lettermen, and the others to be experienced players. This combination along with Ernest L. Hix's coaching experience brought to North Central another successful tennis season.

The team opened defense of their eighth consecutive city championship by defeating both Rogers and Gonzaga.

Coach Walter C. Hawes' prospects for a top-ranking golf team did not look too bright at the beginning of the season with only one letterman, Glenn Ballantyne, to bolster the squad.

However, the six-man team made a strong opening by winning the first match from Gonzaga 11 to 7, and upsetting the Rogers team 14 to 4 in the second match. The team continued top-flight golf all season.

GIRLS' BASEBALL

STRIKE three! You're out!!

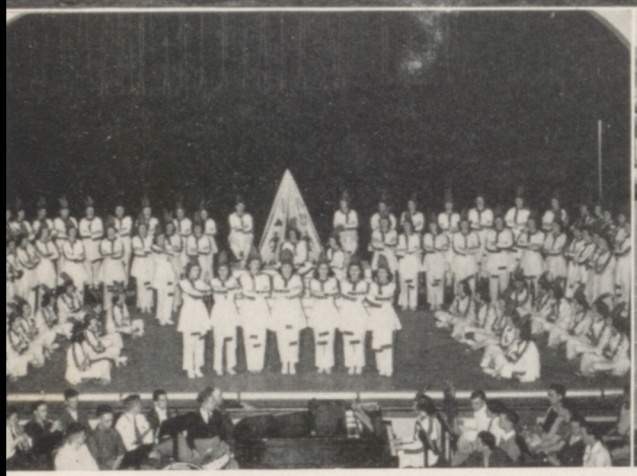

This phrase was perhaps heard on the playfield more often than any other as over 100 girls enthusiastically participated in the intramural round robin baseball tournament, which began April 23 under the faculty direction of Miss Isabel McElwee, gym instructor.

Baseball attracted more girls than any other spring or fall sport this season. Gail Smith was student manager and Phyllis Gazette was her assistant.

From the girls that turned out, eight teams and their captains were chosen. They are: Sleepy Sluggers, captained by Regina Honeycutt; Batting Females, led by Beverlee Wilson; Blue Ribbon Badgers, with Dena Savas, captain; Red Sox, Marion Tobler, captain; Keep 'Em Battin', Jackie Breeding, captain; Socking Squaws, Marcella Christian, captain; Sluggin' Dopes, Mary Peterson, captain; and Baseball Belles, captained by Mona Adams.

Three graduating seniors who will be greatly missed during next baseball season are: Norma Garitano, Lorna Foss and Ethel Bass.

First row, left to right: Marilyn Taber, Lois Johnson, Glenna Wiley, Leona Benedict, Evabelle Blade, Norma Kucera, Pat Douglas, Irene Olson, Norma Hyer, Bernice Johnson, Betty Appel, Alice Cooke, Pauline Staeheli, Helen Nygaard, Beverly Hubbell, Joan Chisholm. Second row: Donna LaPointe, Mary Crosby, Peggy Gazette, Faye Whipple, Elaine Wahl, Barbara Slorah, Donella Anderson, Sally Wetzel, Florence Wood, Peggy Reiling, Barbara Kilgore, Aileen Robinson, Carol Gross, Ruby Grosvenor, Peggy Leach, Betty Gail Kiser, Doris Bradbury, Patt Nelson. Third row: Joan Hieber, Elaine Evans, Betty Lou Berg, Dorothy Wadsworth, Marian McLucas, Donna Green, Shirley DeMers, Bonita Stephan, Kay Grant, Lenore McNeely, Mary Jarvis, Kathleen Compton, Helen Buckler, Adeline Trapp, Carolyn Nelson, Doris McQuillan, Mary Panagos, Ethel Bass, Virginia Eitel, LaRayne Barker, Thorajean Weisman. Fourth row: Jane Delsman, Eleanor Magnuson, Mary Louise Peterson, Viola Maylott, Erma Franke, Patty Lanning, Gayle Nelson, Joy Ferguson, Joy Davis, Esmee Bath, Jean Williams, Bernadine Barnes, Bertie Laughbon, Marian Eaton, Myrtle Barden, Dorothy Gibson, Dorothy Groom, Betty Wisted, Gwen Heydon, Gail Smith, Gloria Staples, Evelyn Burgason, Mareesa Lake.

RED FEATHERS

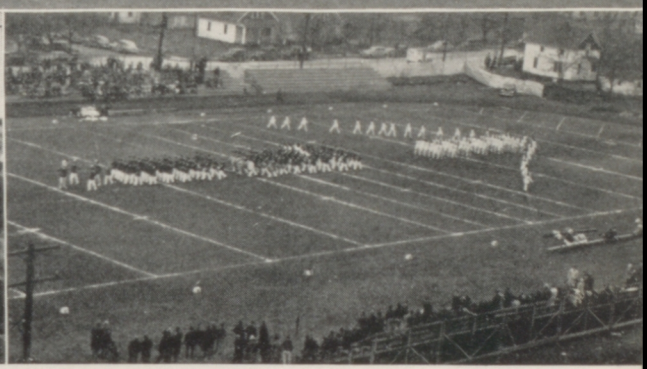

UNDER the able direction of Miss Elsa Pinkham, the Red Feather group made many outstanding appearances this year.

Their initial appearance was at the merry-go-round football game. Between halves at this game, the Red Feathers marched onto the field from either end in straight lines, inter-mixed with the band and the Color girls, who wore blue capes. As they neared the center, the lights were turned out. When the lights came on. a large American flag had been formed. For this intricate maneuver, North Central was awarded the gold trophy by the Athletic Round Table.

Norma Hyer was elected sports princess by student ticket holders in the fall and Patsy Sullivan is the spring sports princess.

COLOR GIRLS

TO promote school spirit and interest in all athletic activities about North Central, the Color group, an honorary service group, was established about five years ago. This organization, which consists of 66 members, forms a cheering and color section at the games and marches in Halloween and Memorial Day parades. Each girl wears the official uniform which includes a basic black skirt, a red sweater with the Color girl emblem and white shoes and anklets.

Mrs. Gladys Dunphy, study hall teacher, has been adviser of the organization for the past two years. The members are girls of the ninth and tenth grades who are selected on the basis of scholarship, attendance, health, cooperation in school activities, and good citizenship. They must have the approval of all their teachers and no grades below C.

A testing committee, appointed each semester, tests all applicants for membership.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

SWISH! Swish! What a shot!

Well, maybe all girl basketballers were not quite that good, but regardless of their ability, a very successful season was enjoyed by over 100 girls who entered the intra-mural round-robin tournament which began October 14.

Eight teams composed the league, with the V . . . — team, captained by Audrey Patrick, winning the championship with eight wins and no losses. Other teams in the league and their captains were: Battling Basketeers, Ethel Bass; Penny Dribblers, Peg Cromer; Kohles Killerettes, Kathleen Kohles; Tiptops, Phyllis Gazette; Razzle-Dazzlers, Irene Olsen; Indian War Maidens, Mildred Lesler; Keep 'em Flying, Peg Gazette; Papa's Prodigees, Euna Scott; and Basketeers, Mona Adams.

Miss Isabel McElwee, gym instructor, was faculty director, and Mary Peterson and Mary Jo Buckler were student managers.

GIRLS' TENNIS AND GOLF

ENTHUSIASTICALLY leading the many girls on the North Central tennis team for this semester were Euna Scott, captain; Peggy Leach and Joy Ferguson, managers; and Pat Green, Jo Smith and Marilyn Berggren, assistant managers. During the fall semester, Peg Gazette captained the team with the same managers. Miss Elsa M. Pinkham is the girls' coach.

Lewis and Clark defeated North Central 8 to 7 for the city tennis championship for the first time in six seasons last fall.

Betty Gilliland captained the North Central golfers during the fall semester and Denise Jordan, who was manager then, became captain for the spring semester. Patt Nelson was the team's manager in the spring. Miss Wilhelmine Timm is the coach.

During the inter-school tournament Lewis and Clark defeated North Central 33 to 10 in the fall play-offs.

Three golfers are leaving the team this June. They are: Charlene Huffman, Mollie Riley and Betty Stewart.

"ROMEO AND JULIET"

THE two chief families in SOMERS-ville were the rich newspaper MUNN, MATT WILLIAMS and SOTH MUNROE. Naturally there was a stiff rivalry between the WILLIAM'S GAZETTE and the MUNROE'S COLLIER. This GRIVAS enmity extended to the remotest kindred of both sides.

MATTE'SON, Romeo WILLIAMS, was a gay young BLADE who went to North Central, which was on the WES side of TOWNE. Here he edited the "BENEDICT ARNOLD" ANN went steady with Rosaline BROWN.

Juliet MUNROE was the STARR reporter on the "SOTH Central BREWER." She was the BELL of the school but was still waiting for the real McCOY when—

One night at an all-city high dance she SHAW Romeo. Juliet RILEY fell for him the moment she walked into the gym; but she naturally ignored him at first as it is only proper for the MANN to fall first.

Romeo wasn't so shy. The minute he SEA(V)ER he shouted, "GALLOWAY," and elbowed his way to LaPOINTE where where Juliet STAN.

"DARLENE," he sighed, "WYNONA leave the FINKELSON there and dance with me?"

"Why you GRAHAM," cried Tybalt ARMSTRONG, her date. "IVA good notion to CORK you one. BIALLAS, I will," KURZ he.

"Don't be BRASCH," whispered Juliet.

"Im a FREEMAN and I WILLA dance with whoever I want to," shouted Romeo. "NEFF you don't keep your TRAPSCHUH, I'll SNURE BUTCHART you."

"If you ask me, you're HUFFMAN, half wolf," muttered Tybalt as he SPRINT-ed away. Secretly he resolved to get her back and let the devil take the HINES most.

"GOODALE, Tybalt," laughed Romeo and he and Juliet went SALING off.

Now that Tybalt was taken care of, the two thought that their troubles had SEASE-d for the evening. They forgot one thing. Rosaline, Romeo's date, was still sitting in a corner waiting for HERMAN to come back. Not until Romeo floated by with Juliet, did she realize that she had been stood up. "I've been double CROSS-ed," mourned she.

Just then Tybalt, her CONRAD in misery, who was HUNT-ing for a girl to better his RECOR-d, stalked by. He BECHoned to her, saying, "KROMER here, COOKIE, and shake a leg." She EGER-ly consented, hoping to get even with Romeo. The dance rhythm switched to a DINDINGER of a schottische when they got out on the floor and as she swung in Tybalt ARMSTRONG's strong arms, she felt MOHR and MOHR happy, and her HOPPE-s went HYER and HYER. At the end of the number they breathlessly swooped off to the fountain for a fill-up. Taking a good look at her NEWMAN, she smiled, "You know I'm kinda glad Romeo left. He isn't WORTHEN the trouble he costs. Besides you remind me of DANIEL BOON."

Tybalt admitted that he had a STERLING character of pure GOLD ANN decided that he WOOD-n't SQUIBB-le about the change in DOLL-s.

They had HARLEY said this when MATT WILLIAMS, who was acting as a patron, noticed his son with a girl from the enemy camp. Fuming and sputtering, he plowed his way through the palpitating mass of jitterbugs to his son, resolving not to let any MOSS grow under his feet.

Juliet's mother also happened to be a patroness that night and she noticed her daughter with Romeo almost simultaneously. She had WARREN'd her to stay away from the WILLIAMS' so she resolved to be the STIRN parent with a heart of STONE. Being close to them, she TRAVIS-ed the distance a minute before the ELDER WILLIAMS. She stopped short when she heard, "Yes, our parents are pretty WHITE. We can count on them to understand that you and I are MAY-d for each other." Her best self APPEL-d to, Mrs. MUNROE wheeled around, bumping into the apologetic WILLIAMS. They both grinned, agreed that they had BEN making a GROSS error and decided to be FRAN(CI)S. After the dance Romeo caught a glimpse of Rosaline and Tybalt walking out together. "NORMAN nor beast can stop us now," he said. "I feel like the guy on BALLANTYNE cards," and they, taking the longest RHODES, sang CASEY JONES ALLOWAY home.

LOST WORD

Seated one day at the typewriter, I was weary of A's and E's
And my fingers wandered wildly over the consonant keys.
I know not what I was writing, with that thing so like a pen
But I struck one word astounding, unknown to the speech of men.
It flooded the sense of my verses, like the break of a tinkers dam.
And I felt as one feels when the printer of your "infinite calm" makes clam.
O, I have tried, but I tried it vainly, the one last word to divine
Which came from the keys of the typewriter, and so would pass as mine.

SCUZZIT, PLIZZ!

The brizzes, the brizzes,
They blow through the trizzes;
They whizzes and whizzes,
Wherever they plizzes;
They give me the snizzes,
All kinds of dizzizzes
(Disgusting, izzn't it?)

WHEN we build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for present delight nor for present use alone. Let it be such work as our descendants will thank us for; and let us think, as we lay stone on stone, that a time is to come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look upon the labor and wrought substance of them: "See! This our Fathers did for us."

WAR TIME

My alarm clock rings
With its piercing shriek;
It's black outside
As the light switch I seek.
I grope for my robe,
My clock must be fast;
But the clock in the kitchen
Says exactly half past.
I try to keep open
My weary eyes
As a faint streak of dawn
Appears in the skies,
And now I remember
What has slipped my mind,
The clock's an hour fast—
It's Pacific War Time.

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON

People who have personal papers with either actual or sentimental value, can hardly afford to be without a safe deposit box.

Valuables kept at home are often misplaced. Sometimes they are destroyed by fire. Occasionally they are stolen.

You can minimize these risks by renting a Safe Deposit Box in our vault.

35th Year in Business

Panting and perspiring, Elaine Evans and Evelyn Penny on a tandem bicycle, at last got to the top of the steep hill.

"That sure was a steep hill, Evelyn," said Elaine.

"Boy and you're not kidding," said Evelyn. "If I hadn't kept the brake on we would have gone backward."

PRIORITIES

Oh, there's something quite sad
About our little car.
We hate not to use it,
It's quite up to par.
Its brakes are all right,
It would pass any test;
But it's been put away
For an indefinite rest.
We can't fix it up
With grease or with pliers;
Oh, what our car needs
Is a good set of tires.
